Applying for Disabled Students' Allowance (DSA)

- If a student has a long-term disability and as a result of that disability they are obliged to incur additional expenditure in connection with their studies, they may be eligible for extra allowances, known as Disabled Students' Allowance (DSA). All Research Council funded students are eligible for these allowances.
- Disabled Students' Allowance covers costs relating to additional general expenses, items of equipment, or non-medical assistance during the term of a studentship.
- Research Councils will consider meeting only those costs that are incurred directly and solely as a consequence of taking up a studentship to pursue postgraduate study.
- If applying for Disabled Students' Allowance, a student or Research Organisation should not commit to any expenditure relating to the claim until the Research Council has sent a formal agreement of the amount of support that it will provide. Research Councils will not fund retrospectively for equipment already purchased.

Note to students - what you need to do:

1. You should contact the disability co-ordinator at your Research Organisation before applying for the disabled students' allowance.
2. You should discuss and agree your needs with your co-ordinator. They may recommend you undertake a needs assessment at a recognised Access Centre which should be undertaken as soon as possible and before the application for support is submitted. The cost of the assessment will be met by the Research Council.
3. Even if you have a previous Needs Assessment your co-ordinator may recommend a new assessment if your needs are likely to have changed and /or the nature of your postgraduate study necessitates different requirements.
4. If your disability co-ordinator does not consider it necessary for you to undertake a full needs assessment they may still make recommendations for any support that you require complete with a detailed breakdown of costs.
5. This form must be completed in full, including exact quotes for all costs, by your Research Organisation disability co-ordinator. They are responsible for submitting it to the relevant Research Council who will then agree what allowance is payable.
6. The completed form should be returned along with any supporting documents to the relevant studentships contact in the Research Council that is sponsoring the studentship.
7. Note that ESRC sponsored students are not required to complete and submit an application for DSA to the Research Council. The ESRC student liaison officer and the Disability Coordinator for your Research Organisation will be able to advise further on the process.
